The Chinese Communist Party produces car batteries on American soil, and they are using YOUR tax dollars to do it.

How is this possible? — Let me explain.

Back in February, American auto company Ford made a deal with a Chinese company called CATL to build a battery factory for electric vehicles in Michigan.

Ford's CATL deal may be eligible for federal tax benefits under a new law called the Inflation Reduction Act.

The last thing Communist-controlled CATL needs is YOUR money.

First – CATL receives subsidies from the Chinese government equivalent to 20% of its net income. It is financially and legally obligated to advance the CCP's vision of global authoritarian control.

Second – CATL's founder and CEO sits on a key Chinese Communist Party aligned-organization designed to legitimize party rule.

Third – CATL hurts American workers. The Chinese EV industry swipes our intellectual property and uses forced labor to undercut our prices and steal American jobs, all while partners like Ford enshrine companies like CATL into our critical supply chains.
